Our Commitment to Sustainable Tourism

We live in the wonderful Brecon Beacons, and are keen to do whatever we can to preserve our local wilderness - and our world - for our own and future generations. So we try to minimise our impact on the environment, whilst maintaining high levels of comfort and luxury for our guests. We would also love our guests to help us become more green.

But this is not just about saving the planet! Holidays with a focus on sustainability are good for us too. Switching off the phone, reconnecting with the natural world and being open to experience what is around us locally, is the perfect way to return home refreshed and relaxed.

We are committed to:

- Reducing energy use
- Saving water
- Efficient & eco-friendly waste disposal
- Ethical buying
- Staying local & seasonal
- Minimising food miles
- Promoting biodiversity

What do we do?

We do our best to support the many fantastic local food suppliers - and pick up our supplies on foot wherever possible!

We recycle everything we can – including cardboard, plastic bottles, glass bottles, newspaper, greetings cards, magazines and drink and food cans. It would help if you could leave these beside the bin in your room. Our food waste (cooked and uncooked) and garden waste make amazing compost for our homegrown fruit and vegetables!

Towels and bed linen are changed after 5 days (and with each new set of guests!) unless you request an earlier change.

We use environmentally friendly cleaning and laundry products, recycled toilet paper, and low energy light bulbs.

We always seek out the most environmental solution to washing laundry that still produces white sheets!

We are installing a water meter, and encourage our guests (and ourselves) not to use water unnecessarily.

We promote bio-diversity in our garden, and are growing more and more organic vegetables.

We know we have more to do – so we positively welcome our guests' ideas for how we can do even better.

Together, we're getting there!
